

BRIGHAM YOUNG
UNIVERSITY
IDAHO

November 16, 2010

To Whom It May Concern:

It has been my responsibility to supervise Mr. Jeffrey Alan Lunt during his student teaching assignment at Kearns High School in the Granite School District. Mr. Lunt has worked under the direction of two cooperating teachers, Ms. Kathryn Wilkins [English] and Mr. James Flanagan [American Government]. Jeff's cooperating teachers helped him to become familiar with the prescribed curriculum and the Utah State Core Curriculum Standards. Mr. Flanagan and Ms. Wilkins oriented Mr. Lunt to the school and modeled effective teaching and demonstrated their classroom expectations for students. They also made suggestions for lessons they wanted Jeff to prepare to teach.

Mr. Lunt dressed appropriately and was professionally groomed at all times. He was quick to learn the names of his students and strived to understand their levels of ability. He understood the accommodations he would need to make in order to meet the special needs of each student. When I observed Jeff he provided me with written lesson plans which were based on the required objectives. Mr. Lunt's level of performance was proficient in meeting the required standards set by Brigham Young University-Idaho's College of Education in each of the following areas:

Planning For Instruction
Subject Matter Knowledge
Instruction Delivery
Management of The Learning Environment
Assessment
Professional Commitment and Responsibility

Mr. Lunt is knowledgeable in his subject matter and radiates confidence when he is teaching. I encourage you to give him careful consideration as a prospective teacher in either English or American Government. He has the potential for making a very positive contribution to his chosen school and community.

Sincerely,

Ronald J. Hermansen, Ed.D
University Supervisor
(801) 942-2080